

Boats close to day at one o'clock.

There are hundreds of men in and around New York that we can fit and they don't know it.

You know what we've been saying right along—that we have clothes to fit everybody and that we are willing to take all the trouble we know how to, to show them so—their money back if they want it but, you know, they aren't used to believing advertisements. And, to be fair, why should they?

We should like to see those hundreds though.
